Reading at Home
After half term, we will be re-commencing our reading incentives. Reading with children at home is crucial and has a vast amount of benefits including development of vocabulary, raising attainment and supporting their mental health. We ask that children are heard to read at home at least 3 times a week by an adult and this should be recorded in their reading record. They can read their school book or a choice of book from home. As a school, we pledge that an adult will hear your child read in school at least once a week. Reading logs will be monitored each half term and the following rewards will be given at the end of each half term.

- 25 marked logs reading at home - bookmark
- 50 marked logs reading at home - book
- 75 marked logs reading at home - book token

Reflection of the week from Mari Palmer – Diocesan Director of Education
On the 2nd February those in church celebrated the Feast of the Celebration with Candlemas.
Around forty days ago we were invited to celebrate the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. Now we can recall the day on which he was presented in the Temple, when he was offered to the Father and shown to his people.
Candlemas marks the turning point of the Christian Year. Not just because is falls as the first signs of Spring are often in the air – snowdrops appearing, some hints of warmer, and lengthening, days. It is the point where we can be invited to stop; to look back on the celebrations of Jesus' coming at Christmas and look forward, moving towards Jesus' passion. We can be invited to turn from birth towards death and resurrection. At this pivot point in the year we could see all the mess and muddle and failure that is to come in the life of any new baby, and for Jesus in particular. But it is frames with light. The light of hope sung by Christmas angels; the light of resurrection in an Easter dawn. We can believe we do not journey through the mess alone and because Jesus was raised we are invited to know the mess is not that last word. At this pivot point of the year we can believe we travel from light to light…our candles represent very God for us. Lighten our darkness.
Thank you for your support

Yours sincerely

MK Hunt
